Article 5. General principles for whistleblowing

1. Anonymity: The whistleblowing system should ensure anonymity to encourage PVCFC's staffs or business partners to confidently raise suspected improper conduct whenever as soon as possible. Anonymity (including both the whistleblower and the reported individuals) also needs to be maintained and ensured throughout the process from the beginning of the assessment, investigation, disclosure of conclusions of the reported improper conduct until after taking solution against the reported individuals.

2. Confidentiality: All whistleblowing reports must be handled carefully, confidentially and do not reveal the whistleblower's identity, personal information (unless the whistleblower wants to be public his/her identity) and other information related to improper conduct during the process of receiving, processing, and disclosing information.
3. Whistleblower protection: The whistleblowing system should ensure that PVCFC staffs or business partners can conveniently raise their concerns about improper conduct without fear of becoming a victim of following retaliation (such as discrimination, punishment, alienation, fire, harassment, termination of business transactions/ contracts, etc.), as well as reporting retaliatory actions if arisen.
4. Publicity and transparency: The results of the assessment, investigation, and conclusions on reported improper conduct should be publicly and transparently disclosed in internal scope or both internal and external scope depending on the specific case.
5. Handling untrue whistleblowing reports: Organizations, individuals that give false or untrue whistleblowing reports for malicious purposes or personal interest must be handled according to the provisions.

Article 6. Principles of building the whistleblowing process

The process of receiving and handling whistleblowing reports, which is developed and promulgated in a separate document based on the provisions of this Regulation, must ensure the full implementation of procedures, including: (i) receive disclosure of improper conduct; (ii) review information and make preliminary assessment; (iii) investigate whistleblowing reports and collect corroborating evidences; (iv) make decisions to handle the reported individuals and his/her/their related parties; (v) report and/or prosecute to competent state authorities for acts causing serious consequences and/or showing signs of violating the law; (vi) disclose publicly investigation result, conclusion and handling decision.

CHAPTER II. RECEIVING REPORT

Article 7. Whistleblowing channels

The whistleblowing system is a collection of many channels for receiving information in different forms, which may include but are not limited to: (i) direct discussion; (ii) hotline; (iii) email; (iv) mail/comment box; (v) PVCFC's website. Whistleblower can report their concern anytime, anywhere via the whistleblowing system without having to go to PVCFC's office.

In case the whistleblower reports disclosure of improper conduct directly to the functional Department/Division's officer-in-charge instead of whistleblowing channels, that officer-in-charge is responsible for sending all information and data received via email to the Legal and Compliance Department.

Article 8. Principles of organization and operation of whistleblowing channels

Whistleblowing channels must be designed and operated to ensure following principles:

- Have conditions to receive many reports with many different information formats such as text, images, document files, etc. via all ways (online or offline);
- Ensure anonymity;
- Ensure confidentiality;
- Use encryption according to uniform rules to facilitate confidentiality during investigation, processing progress reports and communication, training;
- Have a name that is easy to remember and sympathize with;
- Make sure to maintain at least 2 channels at a time;
- Have an appropriate reporting language (English is required if having business transactions with foreign partners, Vietnamese is the default);
- Support secure two-way discussion;
- Organize all input information of all channels in a unified flow to effectively support subsequent assessment and investigation.

Article 9. Whistleblowing reports

Whistleblowing reports do not need to comply with a fixed form, however the whistleblowing report should include but not be limited to the following basic aspects:

- The nature of the improper conduct;
- The context and time of the improper conduct;
- Individuals/departments that commit or are involved in the improper conduct;
- The impact or effect of the improper conduct;
- Supporting documents/evidence (invoices, vouchers, photos, etc.), if any;
- Contact information if necessary (in case whistleblower allows);
- Other information for investigation purposes.

CHAPTER III. ASSESSING REPORT

Article 10. Overview of assessing report

1. All whistleblowing report need to be preliminarily reviewed, assessed seriously and carefully.
2. This assessment will result in one or more of the followings:
 - a. Gather more information to get a better understanding of whistleblowing report;

- b. Make a decision to conduct an investigation if there are enough basis;
 - c. Take immediate preventive measures in case of obvious existing risks (e.g. high risks related to safety, health or major loss of PVCFC's assets);
 - d. Notify relevant state authorities (if subject to notification);
 - e. Close the whistleblowing report (in case there are not enough basis to continue the investigation).
3. The Legal and Compliance Department submits to the Whistleblowing Council for approval whether the whistleblowing report have enough basis for investigation.

Article 11. Aspects to be considered when assessing whistleblowing reports

When assessing whistleblowing report received, the Legal and Compliance Department should consider the following aspects:

- a. Does the whistleblowing report fall within the scope of this Regulation? If not, which department/division will be responsible for handling?
- b. Does the whistleblowing report involve criminal elements? Is it necessary to notify other regulatory authorities?
- c. When did the improper conduct happen?
- d. Are there any immediate risks related to safety, health, and human rights?
- e. Is it necessary to immediately protect evidence (documents, papers, electronic devices, storage devices, etc.)?
- f. To what extent is the information contained in the whistleblowing report leaked to the outside?
- g. How reliable is the whistleblowing report?
- h. Who are the related parties that the whistleblowing report addresses?
- i. How serious is the improper conduct?
- j. To what extent is it possible to confirm improper conduct from reliable sources?
- k. What is the priority of the investigation of improper conduct (based on the results of risk assessment of the improper conduct at high, medium, or low level)?

Article 12. Assessing and preventing adverse risks to the whistleblowers

- 1. Upon receiving the whistleblowing report, Legal and Compliance Department should assess the adverse risks to the whistleblower and related parties to consider necessary measures to protect the whistleblower.
- 2. Questions that may be asked to assess adverse risks include, but are not limited to:
 - a. What is the risk that the information related to the whistleblowing report may be leaked to the outside?
 - b. Is the whistleblower worried? Has any adverse behavior occurred?
 - c. Was the whistleblower involved in the conduct or indicated to participate?
 - d. What is the relationship between the whistleblower and the improper conduct?

- e. What adverse risks may the whistleblower bear?

 - b. Keep the whistleblowing report confidential and only share it with those who need to know;
 - c. Support/Discuss throughout the reporting process;
 - d. Change work location and/or reporting channel;
 - e. Notify relevant parties that improper conduct may lead to higher disciplinary measures.
4. The extent and nature of the whistleblower protection measures depend on the type and nature of the improper conduct, its consequences as well as the parties involved in the whistleblowing report.
5. These risks need to be reviewed and assessed throughout the process from receiving the whistleblowing report, investigation and even after the report is closed.

CHAPTER IV. INVESTIGATION

Article 13. Overview of investigation

1. After finishing the process of assessing whistleblowing report received, Whistleblowing Council establishes a task force consisting of members who are not related to the whistleblowing report and have experience and legal professional knowledge which are appropriate to carry out an investigation of concern with sufficient basis of improper conduct.
2. In case the personnel in PVCFC are not capable or independent to carry out the investigation, Whistleblowing Council considers the option of outsourcing or collaborating with external parties to jointly carry out the investigation.
3. An approved investigation decision includes, but is not limited to, basic information such as: (i) the nature, objectives and scope, object of the investigation; (ii) the key leader who is responsible for the investigation (internal or external); (iii) technical, financial or legal advice which are necessary for the investigation; (iv) the schedule of the investigation; (v) whether it is necessary to take a suspension from work on the individuals who is alleged improper conduct; (vi) appropriate time to notify the individuals who is alleged improper conduct about the investigation process.
4. The investigating unit may carry out interviews with staffs, business partners and external professional firms (such as law firms, auditing firms, etc.) to collect sufficient evidence, suitable basis for preparing conclusion reports that will be submit to the Whistleblowing Council and the General Director and/or the Board of Directors.

5. The investigation must be carried out in strict confidentiality, ensuring clarity and transparency, and not notifying the reported individuals (the subject of the improper conduct) until necessary. However, in some situations, suspensions may need to immediately review and implement.
6. During the investigation, the investigating unit may contact the whistleblower based on the nature of the reported improper conduct, its potential impacts, and the clarity and completeness of the information provided in the whistleblowing report.
7. In case the investigation lasts more than three (3) months, the investigating results should be closely monitored and periodically reported to the Whistleblowing Council, General Director and the Audit and Risk Management Committee (if necessary).

Article 14. Protecting and supporting the whistleblower

1. PVCFC commits not to fire, threaten, disturb, or have any discriminatory behavior towards staffs, business partners who reported disclosure of improper conduct to PVCFC.
2. All information related to the whistleblowing reports will be treated as PVCFC's confidential information. This confidential information will not be disclosed to any third party, except for investigating purposes; report to the competent Vietnamese state authorities (in case of improper conduct related to criminal responsibility) and PVCFC's use for communicating purposes in an anonymous method.

Article 15. Protecting stakeholders

2. Stakeholders are entitled to protect from adverse actions.

CHAPTER V. CONCLUSION AND PERIODIC REPORT

Article 16. Overview of conclusion and communication

1. The investigation should reach a conclusion as to whether the whistleblowing report is true or not, the report provides complete or partial accuracy information, and there is any related risks that have not been identified in the business processes which are operating, internal controls have been adequately designed or implemented effectively to prevent such risks, who participates or is involved (support, concealment, etc.) has not been mentioned in the initial whistleblowing report, what are the effects of the improper conduct on PVCFC (reputation, financial loss, business suspension, etc.).
2. Based on the results of the investigation, if the reported improper conduct is confirmed to be true, PVCFC will immediately take necessary procedures to correct the improper conduct, deal with the consequences (if any) caused by the improper conduct and prevent similar improper conduct from happening again. The conclusion of the investigation may also be to deny the veracity of the improper conduct or the need for an in-depth investigation by an independent external third party.

3. In case some staffs of PVCFC are involved in the improper conduct confirmed in Clause 1 of this Article intentionally or completely unintentionally, these staffs will be handled according to the disciplinary measures regulated in the PVCFC's internal regulations, policies or may be handled according to current Vietnamese laws and regulations.
4. The conclusion of the investigation and the way to deal with and handle improper conduct will be notified to the whistleblower right after completing all necessary procedures as prescribed and at the same time disclosed publicly within department/division/the Company and/or outside PVCFC (if necessary, depending on each specific case).

Article 17. Periodic reports on whistleblowing channels

1. The Company maintains a register (in written or electronic form) that records full details of all whistleblowing reports received (including disclosures of improper conduct which were assessed as proper). Each whistleblowing report is numbered to facilitate communication and training, while ensuring anonymity and confidentiality.
2. Legal and Compliance Department is responsible for reporting every 6 months to the Whistleblowing Council on the operation of the whistleblowing channels, including disclosures of improper conduct that were and were not investigated, the investigating progress and results as well as the conclusions and results of implementing the respective problem-solving methods for each case. The content of the report should ensure confidentiality by referring to the number code of the whistleblowing report instead of the specific content of the whistleblowing report, the whistleblower, and the reported object.
